> Speaking at Calcutta on the 5th ult., the Right Hon, the Earl of Dufferin, Vicercy of India, said, referring to the condition of Burmah and relations with China :- "Satisfactory proofs are daily received of the rapidity with which Upper Burmah is settling down and order is being established; also satisfactory progress respecting those questions affecting the Shan States and our relations both with Siam and China, The frontier dividing the Shan States under British rule from those under Siamese jurisdiction has been decided upon and our political officers have everywhere been well received. The Chinese Government is exhibiting towards us a most friendly spirit and is doing everything possible to render the settlement of that part of Burmah which borders on China easy and successful. The Viceroy of nunan has received instructions, to order the officials on the Chinese frontier to cultivate friendly relations with us, and the effect is becoming very marked."

The Chinese Times says :- An interesting and frontier. highly ingenious experiment has been made by the Rev. Mr. Boach, of Tung Chow, to represent amongst the civil section of the British and the Chinese speken language by a system of clear and simple phonetic symbols, more or less after the Pitman style. The question of remaniaing Chinese has long exercised the minds of missionaries, and considerable success has attended their efforts in the South of China to turn the system to practical account. All attempts to render Chinese phonetically are necessarily open to the objection that they cannot be universally applied owing to the diversity of dialect; hence the remanized books in circulation in the South are not available for the people of the North. And Mr. Beach's, system of stanographic symbols, while probably more susceptible of extension than the romanizing system, does not profess to go farther than Wade's Pekingese does. The basis of Mr. Beach's method is the division of every monosyllabis word in Chinese into two component parts, an initial and a final, "an idea already familiar to the Chinese in the fan chieh of the Wu-fang-yuan-yin," and the author finds he can accomplish his purpose by means of twenty-six initials and twenty-nine finals, of which he makes a kind of alphabet. There are still a few syllables which require extra symbols, and the tones have als: the author declares that an educated foreigner can I arn the system in from two to five hours and Chiuese in from ten lessons to five months according to capacity. It would be difficult to explain the system more fully without the book which has been printed at the "A.B.C.M

> The Shih pao Writes :- Fengeshui is a matter that one should not implicitly believe, and it is sometimes impossible to discredit it, as is shown by the following anecdote:-In one of the villages in Kwangtung a paterfamilias by the surname of Wang died, leaving four sons. The eldest of these sons selected what appeared to him an auspicious spot for the deceased's burial but the younger sons objected to the contiguration of the site as bad fong-shui. They declared that the spot was too much exposed to the sun, and was, moreover, confronted by an unlucky stream; that if their father was buried there all his sons and grandsons would die away from their homes. The eldest brother, however had his own way, and the deceased father was buried in the site originally selected. After the lapse of ten years, the four brothers were all on joy ing business prosperity, and they ascribed it to the good fong shur of their inther's tomb. Harmony, however, did not prevail in the patriarchal family, and so the brothers separated, two remaining in the village and two moving to Hongkong. About two months ago, when the celebration of the Queen's Jubilee occurred at Hongkong, the two brothers in the village proceeded there to behold the mghts; and at conclusion of the jubilee, they, together with Young for Canton, and perished with the burn- event last year, when his record was 32ft. 3rd March. CROWN CASE RESERVED. BEFORE THE FULL COURT.

REGINA V. KWOK ACEL. Mr. Robinson, instructed by Mesers. Wotton and Deagon, appeared for the appellant. The Attorney General (Hon. E. L. O'Malley) apneared for the Crown. The appellant was charged at the Criminal Sessions with the largery of certain goods, and also with unlawfully receiving the same knowing them to have been stolen. He was convicted on the latter count. The Acting Chief Justice, before whom the case was tried, instructed the jury that recent possession was presumptive evidence of unlawfully receiving as well as of stealing. At the request of Mr. Robinson, the defendant's counsel, this point was reserved, and now came on for argument.

Mr. Robinson cited a number of authorities in support of his contention, and argued that recent possession was only evidence in a case of theft, and that where the accused proved that be was not the thief he was entitled to an acquittal. In the present case, he urged the prisoner being a cargo boatman, the presumption that he received them in the ordinary course of his business. was stronger than the presumption that he received them knowing them to have been stolen. The Acting Chief Justice said Mr. Robinson at the trial arged the latter point very strong-ly on the jury, but they returned a verdict against the defendant. Without calling upon the Attorney-General to reply, the Court dismissed Mr. Robinson's application and upheld the conviction. THE HONGKONG HOTEL COMPANY.
